Applicant's traverse of the restriction requirement has been considered, but is not deemed persuasive. Applicant's argument, that applicant should be entitled to a consideration of a reasonable number of related embodiments falling within the scope of a generic inventive concept, is not convincing, since applicant has not cited any authority for such position. Applicant's argument, that a search and examination of the entire application could be accomplished without a serious burden on the examiner since the multiple embodiments identified of record would seemingly encompass a common field of search, is not convincing, since the examination of an application does not end with a search. Moreover, it is less burdensome to search a given class and subclass for one invention than it is for two. Accordingly the restriction requirement is made FINAL.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 9-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claim 9, it is indefinite as to what the upper preheat temperature is. In claims 13-28 "selected from the group comprising..." and "selected from the...and" is improper Markush terminology.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Art Unit: 1793

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 29 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Komoriya et al or Hudson et al or Hirano et al. No distinction is seen between the fertilizer products disclosed by Komoriya et al, Hudson et al and Hirano et al, and that which would be formed according to the process recited in applicant's claim 9.

Claim 29 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Markusch '288. No distinction is seen between the fertilizer product disclosed by Markusch '288, and that which would be formed according to the process recited in applicant's claim 9.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: Markusch '288 and Hirano et al both disclose methods for coating fertilizers with polyols. (See col. 7, line 17 to col. 9, line 14 of Markusch '288; and col. 5, line 14 to col. 6, line 26 of Hirano et al.) However there is no teaching, disclosure or suggestion in either Markusch '288 or Hirano to include a methyl ester derivative of a plant or vegetable oil in the coating mixture. Nor would there be any motivation from the prior art to do so.

The other references are made of record for disclosing various methods for coating fertilizer particles.
